

2013 National Environmental Justice Conference and Training Program
Excited For Another Successful Year

(Washington, DC) –July 24, 2012— On the heels of its outstanding 2012 National Environmental Justice Conference and Training Program, the National Environmental Justice Conference, Inc. (NEJC) is thrilled to announce the dates for its 2013 conference – April 3-5, 2013.

Once more, NEJC leaders are calling upon various members from all walks of life to participate in an innovative three-day discussion of advancing environmental justice through people, policy and change.

This year, hundreds of attendees including federal and state agencies, local governments, tribes, community groups, businesses small and large as well as public interest groups, academia and other entities united to share and discuss views, challenges and solutions for the very important topic of environmental justice (EJ).

The 2012 conference agenda included panel discussions, Q&A segments, online and in-person training and a wide array of networking opportunities. It explored a range of topics including Title VI, Health Disparities and Community Solutions. Various training segments focused on EJ training, grant writing, technical assistance, the enhancement of communities and provided ways for improved productivity and efficiency.

To add to the excitement, the U.S. Department of Energy, U.S. Department of Agriculture, U.S. Department of Interior, U.S. Fish and Wildlife, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the Howard University School of Law and various other Federal agencies joined together to provide expertise, as well as to be a sounding board to those in attendance.

Anyone ready to openly engage in conversation on a variety of viewpoints and EJ strategies should mark their calendars to take advantage of this action packed conference. With all the success of last year, the NEJC has high hopes that the 2013 conference and training program will be the best one yet and a conference not to miss.

The 2013 National Environmental Justice Conference and Training Program will take place in Washington, DC, April 3-5, 2013. The Conference will be held at Howard University School of Law, 2900 Van Ness Street NW, Washington DC, 20008 on April 3, 2013, and the Washington Marriott at Metro Center, 775 12th Street NW, Washington DC, 20005 on April 4-5, 2013. To register your attendance or to submit your interest as a speaker, visit the Conference website at www.thenejc.org.

-MORE-

A large array of sponsorship levels offer companies, agencies, groups and individuals a variety of ways to contribute. Levels range from $1,250 for a hall exhibit display, all the way up to a Platinum $20,000 sponsorship which includes, but are not limited to, a logo featured on all conference materials, acknowledgement in conference publications, a free exhibit hall display, complimentary conference registration, and a full page ad in the conference program. For information on sponsorship packages and opportunities contact Lloyd Moore, Conference Coordinator, email@thenejc.org. As a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, all contributions are tax-deductible to the extent allowed by federal law.

Stay in touch with the 2013 National Environmental Justice Conference and Training Program on Facebook at: <http://www.facebook.com/nejc> and via twitter at: www.twitter.com/nejc2013.

###

Media Contact:

M-Squared Public Relations
Marsha Middleton
Marsha@MSquaredPR.com
(404) 303-7797